Decorado is an animated fable about social control and the absurdity of a life that seems to have been written by someone else. An existential comedy that questions what lies behind the curtain.

SYNOPSIS

Arnold is a middle-aged mouse caught in an existential crisis. His marriage is falling apart, his life feels meaningless, and he begins to suspect that everything around him is a grand illusion. When his best friend dies under suspicious circumstances, Arnold becomes convinced that something is not right. What begins as a creeping paranoia turns into a desperate flight toward something that might, just might, resemble freedom.
